Get Tag Information Anytime, Anywhere

TAG TEST STATION

We're always connected. Be it our cell phones, tablets, televisions, or computer screens—we have what we want and need at our fingertips.

And your nurses should too.

Having the information they want and need at their fingertips is vital—and in some cases life-saving. Can your nurses see important information about their patients and their patients' security tags from the palm of their hand?

Take away some of the inefficiencies and challenges in the day-to-day of your staff with mobile tag testers. No more walking to the nurse's station to see how much battery life is left on a certain tag or manually testing if the individual tags are working properly. Instead every nurse can see the information they want to see, when they need to see it.
